

Antonia Colibășanu is a senior geopolitical analyst, focusing on strategic competitive intelligence analysis. In her latest book, "Contemporary Geopolitics and Geoeconomics 2.0" she discusses the framework for understanding geopolitics and how economic factors intersect politics and social stability.

She is Geopolitical Futures' Chief Operating Officer. She is responsible for overseeing all departments and marketing operations for the company. She is also lecturer on international relations at the Romanian National University of Political Studies and Public Administration and associate professor for the Romanian National Defense University Carol I Regional Department of Defense Resources Management Studies. Prior to Geopolitical Futures in 2016 as Senior Analyst, Dr. Colibasanu has spent more than 10 years with Stratfor in various positions, including as partner for Europe and vice president for international marketing.

She works closely with bestselling authors George Friedman and Robert D. Kaplan and served as Honorary Adviser to Romania's Minister of Energy. She is a trainer on geopolitics for European Affairs program at the Romanian European Institute and she has also worked and developed various courses and educational programs with the Academy of Economic Studies, Bucharest.

She frequently speaks on international economics and security topics at conferences and events in Europe - since 2017 she is listed as Distinguished Scholar & Speaker on Geopolitics at the Sweeney Agency. Since 2012, she has served on the educational board of the International Academy of Advanced Studies in Greece, a summer program that brings together students from Eurasia and the Middle East.

Prior to joining Stratfor in 2006, Dr. Colibasanu worked with the World Trade Center Association in Bucharest. Among other academic credentials, she holds a doctorate in international business and economics from Bucharest's Academy of Economic Studies, where her thesis focused on country risk analysis and investment decision-making processes within transnational companies. She also holds a master's degree in international project management. She is an alumna of the International Institute on Politics and Economics, Georgetown University.